

Women's friendships in fiction

Annie Freeman's Fabulous Traveling Funeral

A package arrives for Katherine Givens holding red tennis shoes filled with ashes and a request from her friend Annie Freeman: that her five best friends take her ashes on a "traveling funeral" to visit her most beloved places.

Fiction/ Radish, Kris check catalog

Changing Faces

Three young friends in urban Chicago – two single, one married – deal with their relationship, career and health issues with each other's support.

Fiction/ Roby, Kimberla Lawson check catalog

A Good Yarn

The story is set in a delightful little yarn store in downtown Seattle where four very different women meet at a knitting class and form some unlikely friendships. Knitting socks can change your life!

Fiction/ Macomber, Debbie check catalog

Grand Avenue

Chris, Barbara, Susan and Vicki meet as young mothers and neighbors and become a supportive network for each other. The years pass and then an unexpected episode changes their lives forever.

Fiction/ Fielding, Joy check catalog

The Ladies Auxiliary

The women of the orthodox Jewish enclave in Memphis, Tennessee are a close-knit community with shared history and values. Are they open enough to welcome a newcomer who challenges some of their ways?

Fiction/ Mirvis, Tova check catalog

The Last Girls

In June 1965 a dozen girls, classmates at Blue Ridge women's college, took a trip down the Mississippi on a homemade raft. Thirty-five years later four of them reunite to travel the river again, this time on a luxury steamboat. We find out how life has treated them since that first carefree voyage.

Fiction/ Smith, Lee check catalog

The Persian Pickle Club

The women's quilting group of Harveyville, Kansas, is a bright spot in the lives of its members, providing fun and companionship during the hard times of the Great Depression. When a colorful city girl comes to town and joins the group, her efforts to uncover a mystery unsettle this close-knit group.

Fiction/ Dallas, Sandra check catalog

The Same Sweet Girls

Six southern women, who became good friends in college, get together twice each year to share the ongoing joys and challenges of their lives.

Fiction/ King, Cassandra check catalog

The Seven Sisters

Candida Wilton, recently divorced, leaves her English village for a new life in central London. As she gets used to the city she takes a class about the poet Virgil and makes some new friends. These relationships lead to some unexpected travel adventures.

Fiction/ Drabble, Margaret check catalog

Snow Flower and the Secret Fan

Set in the remote countryside in nineteenth century China this engrossing tale is about the lifelong friendship between Lily and Snow Flower. It is a vivid portrait of a different time, a far away place and the lasting bond between two women.

Fiction/ See, Lisa check catalog

Sweetwater Creek

Twelve-year old Emily is a lonely motherless girl on a shabby rural plantation. Ignored by her father and brothers, her only friends are her dogs. Life changes when Lulu Foxworth comes into her life. Sophisticated and daring, the older girl opens Emily's eyes to the wider world.

Fiction/ Siddons, Anne Rivers check catalog

INDIAN TRAILS PUBLIC LIBRARY DISTRICT

355 S. Schoenbeck Rd
Wheeling, IL 60090
Telephone 847-459-4100 Fax: 847-459-4760
TDD: 847-459-5271
Web site: <http://www.indiantrailslibrary.org>

PT/revised August 2008/revised January 2010

