

HORROR BOOKS FOR THE SQUEAMISH TALES THAT PROVOKE FEAR IN A SUBTLE FASHION

Black House

Seventeen years after the Talisman, the author revisits its hero. Now in his thirties, Jack Sawyer remembers nothing from his adventures in the Territories, but he is suddenly drawn back there when young children are murdered in his small Wisconsin town.

King, Stephen and Peter Straub

A Boy's Life

Cory Mackenson witnesses a murder in his sleepy Alabama town and the twelve-year-old boy must come to terms with the fact that someone in his trusted community is responsible for such evil.

McCammon, Robert

The Brief History of the Dead

An alternate universe called 'the city' is populated by the dead, but only for as long as they survive in the memories of those who still live. Meanwhile back on earth a virus is slowly destroying the entire population.

Brockmeier, Kevin

Danse Macabre

Anita Blake, a powerful vampire hunter has to contend with a vampire ballet troupe while also dealing with her own increasingly complicated private. This is the fourteenth book in a thrilling and witty series.

Hamilton, Laurell K.

The Haunting of Hill House

In this horror classic, four different people come together for a stay at the notorious Hill House. Events in the house are both physically alarming and emotionally terrifying.

Jackson, Shirley

The Lecturer's Tale

After being fired from his university teaching job, Nelson Humbolt severs his right index finger. Once it is re-attached Nelson finds that he can control a person's behavior simply by touching them with the repaired digit.

Hynes, James

Rebecca

The second Mrs. De Winter is young and inexperienced and feels overshadowed at every turn by her husband's adored dead wife Rebecca. If she is to escape her shadow, she must uncover Rebecca's secrets, and thwart the plans of an obsessed housekeeper.

Du Maurier, Daphne

Something Wicked This Way Comes

When a carnival comes to a small Illinois town a week before Halloween, two adolescent boys are forever changed by its secrets, mysteries and horrors.

Bradbury, Ray

The Stolen Child

At the age of 7 Henry Day is kidnapped by hobgoblins who leave one of their own behind as an imposter. The chapters alternate between the experiences of the human Henry and his hobgoblin replacement. They meet again decades later.

Donohue, Keith

The Thirteenth Tale

Vida Winter is England's most popular and mysterious author. Towards the end of her life she is finally willing to divulge her biggest secrets and chooses Margaret Lea, a rare bookseller to be her biographer. Winter's life story unwinds in a stream of ghosts, lies and half-truths.

Setterfield, Diane

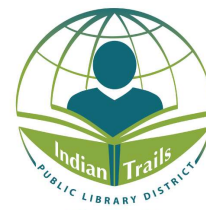

Wuthering Heights

A chance visitor caught in bad weather on the Yorkshire moors has to spend the night at a grim farmhouse. During his enforced stay he learns the tragic story of the wild gypsy Heathcliff who is forever haunted by his dead beloved, Catherine.

Bronte, Emily

INDIAN TRAILS PUBLIC LIBRARY DISTRICT

355 S. Schoenbeck Rd
Wheeling, IL 60090
Telephone 847-459-4100 Fax: 847-459-4760
TDD: 847-459-5271
Night Owl Reference Service: 847-459-4102
Web site: <http://www.indiantrailslibrary.org>

PT 10/4/07 with thanks to Becky Spratford of Berwyn Library